In some countries, the number of shooting massacres is on the rise because many people have guns at home. To what extent do you agree or disagree with this statement. Give reasons for... include any...

Is good without saying that the quantity of every corpuscle, stemming from using firearms is free ground showing irrepressibility which, as some say, can be elucidated by the unconscious madness that too many civilians are possessing these weapons at home. Nonetheless, I find it hard to totally agree with this standpoint.

Admittedly, allowing the masses to merchandise gun liability as accidental facilitates extremists to transgress. IELTS Band 9 Sample Essay Exam Question: In many countries the proportion of older people is steadily increasing. What problems will this cause for individuals and society? Suggest some measures that could be taken to reduce the impact of ageing populations.

It is true that nowadays people in industrialised nations can expect to live longer than ever before. Although there will undoubtedly be some negative consequences to this trend, societies can take steps to mitigate these potential problems.

As people live longer and the populations of developed countries grow older, several related problems can be anticipated. The main issue is that there will obviously be more people of retirement age who will be eligible to receive a pension. The proportion of younger, working adults will be smaller, and governments will therefore receive less money in taxes in relation to the size of the population. In other words, an ageing population will mean a greater tax burden of working adults. Further pressures will include a rise in the demand for healthcare, and the fact young adults will increasingly have to look after their elderly relatives.

There are several actions that governments could take to solve the problems described above. Firstly, a simple solution would be to increase the retirement age for working adults, perhaps from 65 to 70. Nowadays, people of this age tend to be healthy enough to continue a productive working life. A second measure would be for governments to encourage immigration in order to increase the number of working adults who pay taxes. Finally, money from national budgets will need to be taken from other areas and spent for vital healthcare, accommodation and transport facilities for the rising numbers of senior citizens.

In conclusion, various measures can be taken to tackle the problems that are certain to arise as the populations of countries grow older.

by Liz, the sample response of the IELTS writing task 2 below has reviews of the examiner and is a band score 9. The issue of social networks is common and this test question from IELTS was reported in the IELTS test. Check the model rehearsal and then read the comments. Many people believe that social networking sites (such as Facebook) have had a huge negative impact on both individuals and society. How far do you agree? Some think that social networking sites, for example, Facebook, have had a harmful effect on individuals, as well as on society and local communities. However, although I believe that such sites are primarily beneficial to the individual, I agree that they have had a harmful effect on local communities. With respect to people, the impact that online social networks have had on each individual person has clear advantages. First, people from different countries join through sites such as Facebook, while before the development of technology and social networking sites, people rarely had the opportunity to meet or communicate with anyone outside their immediate circle or community. Second, Facebook also has social groups that offer people the opportunity to meet and participate in discussions with people who share common interests. On the other hand, the effect that Facebook and other social networking sites have had on local societies and communities can only be seen as negative. Instead of individuals participating in their local community, they choose to be more interested in online people. Consequently, people within local communities are no longer forming close or supportive relationships. In addition, society as a whole is in placeincreasingly and fragmented as people spend more time online with people who have never met face to face and who are unlikely to be in the future. In conclusion, although social media sites have broughtTogether, they have not had the same effect on society or local communities. Local communities must make more to try to involve local people in local activities in order to promote the future of community life.
